

CONVENTION HALL, BENEDICT COLLEGE, COLUMBIA, S. C.

A fine three-story brick structure, the largest building on the campus. It contains recitation rooms and laboratories, and is the largest building of the college. The school has a campus of twenty acres, comprising four city blocks. The value of the property is $100,000, and the college has a permanent invested and productive endowment fund of $126,000, to which $10,000 will be added upon the settlement of the will of the late Emma Swan, of Albion, N. Y.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY, BENEDICT COLLEGE, COLUMBIA, S. C.

The gift of Andrew Carnegie. Two stories of brick; contains the college library, 7,900 bound volumes and 4,600 pamphlets; reading rooms, mineralogical and geological cabinets. This is one of the eleven substantial buildings of Benedict College, and is well equipped for service.